REFINERS OF SOYBEAN AND OTHER VEGETABLE OILS

It is difficult to furnish an exact list of refineries which produce shortening, margarine, salad and cooking oils, and other edible products from soybean oil, for the interchangeability of various edible fats and oils makes it possible for most refiners to process a variety of raw materials, frequently changing from one to the other. In general, however, most refiners of edible oils can and do process soybean oil at least part of the time, and the following is believed to be a nearly complete list of such refineries and similar processors located in the United States and Canada. No guarantee of completeness is implied, nor is any discrimination intended.
